Creative professionals group offers opportunity for valuable connections

Centennial, Colo., March 26, 2009 – Creative Connections announces its first-ever trade show. The Creative Connections Tradeshow 2009 offers all business people, from sole proprietors to corporate executives, the chance to meet a variety of seasoned creative professionals. It is a one-stop resource for developing relationships with:

- graphic designers / illustrators
- photographers / videographers / animators / multimedia
- archival photo restoration / retouching
- web designers / developers
- fine artists / authors
- printing / sign companies / framing
- interior / exterior designers
- school / college for creative professions
- marketing / pr / advertising / strategy professionals

The Creative Connections Tradeshow 2009 will be held on Thursday, April 23rd, from 3:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. at the Doubletree Hotel Denver Tech Center at Orchard and I-25 (7801 E. Orchard Rd., Greenwood Village, CO, 80111). Admission is free to the public.

Creative Connections celebrates the large diversity of Denver-area creative talent. Members are entrepreneurs who collaborate to find new clients, exchange knowledge, and share resources. “Creative Connections has over 150 members representing the entire spectrum of creative professionals necessary for a business to succeed,” said Steve Stone, Creative Connections co-founder. “From helping you develop a marketing plan, to designing a great office interior, or finding a fine artist or author – you’ll meet the people, the talent, and perhaps even build a team that’s custom-tailored for you, at Creative Connections’ Tradeshow 2009.”
